EVE OF THE NEW YEAR SEES A BARE SLATE

LAST BIT OF UNFINISHED BUSINESS CLEANED UP BY JUDGE AVERILL

Judge Mark R. Averill on the eve of the New Year turned away from his typewriter with a sigh of relief and said to a representative of the Bonanza, who was seeking information: "This signature, which I have just placed to a decision, which will be handed to the county clerk in the next few minutes, is the last bit of unfinished business for the year."

Cross questioning and rebuttal revealed the fact that during 1915 Judge Averill, of the fifth judicial district court heard and passed upon 292 matters, rendering decisions and opinions upon all and also giving adjudication to several matters that were a heritage from 1914, not excepting the famous case of the Jim Butler against the West End.

Of these cases fifty-seven required written decisions. The actual time required in hearing all these matters could not be given, but it is of public knowledge that the light in the court room and in his chambers burns late at night. Among the matters that came before the court during the year, were civil and criminal trials, some of long continuance, motions which required evidence and argument, demurrers, examinations in naturalizations cases, juvenile cases, estate matters and what not. Probate affairs also took up a considerable amount of time.

How Plants Die.

That plants die like animals we all know, but we do not know the exact moment when they die. For hours a dead plant seems alive. There is no twitch, no death spasm. A scientist has, however, succeeded not only in noting the precise moment when a plant gives up its life, but in recording its death spasm. The plant is heated very gradually so as to avoid all excitation. This is done by placing the plant in a water bath the temperature of which is continuously raised by the application of a gas or spirit flame. At 90 degrees C. a spasmodic contraction takes place. All attempts to obtain response after this fall, even though the plant is cooled down to its normal temperature. This death temperature of 90 degrees is constant for all plants.

Eyes of a Bird.

Fishes and birds have an advantage over human beings in their ability to see on both sides of them. Their eyes are set not for looking straight ahead, but for looking out on each side. That is because they balance their bodies to right or to left, while we balance forward and backward. A bird can watch the tips of both wings at once. The pilot of an aeroplane has to turn his head from side to side to see his wing tips.

Foreshadowed.

Madge—Why did you throw him over? Mabel—He would have been a very parsimonious husband. Madge—But he fairly lavished money on you during the engagement. Mabel—Yes; but as soon as we began to talk honeymoon the first thing he did was to look up excursion rates.—Judge.

Inconsistent.

Mrs. Bacon—He's a very inconsistent man. Mrs. Egbert—Indeed? "Yes. Why, he tried to break his boy of being left handed, and he could only punish the little fellow with his left hand."—Yonkers Statesman.

TWO MEN GET 60 TONS OF ORE EACH SHIFT

The mine of the Rochester Mines company at Rochester is opened up in such shape that last week two men, working alone, were shooting down 60 tons of ore in one shift. There is at present fully 8000 tons of ore stored in the stopes of the mill awaiting transportation to the mill. This alone will keep the mill going for seventy-five days.

WORST WIND STORM OF SEASON PREVAILS

ALL INDICATIONS ARE THAT TEMPEST PRESAGES HEAVY FALL OF SNOW

The wind last night and today reached the highest sustained velocity of the season. Considerable damage was done to the local service of the Nevada-California Power company. As fast as a break in one part of town could be repaired, another line went down or a transformer burned out.

The most spectacular feature of the storm was the trip that the rear door of the Mercantile company's garage took. After sailing through the air it knocked the porch from the front of the H. C. Brounger house and crashed into a fence in an adjoining lot. The indications are for a heavy fall of snow or rain tonight or tomorrow.

Sloth and Diligence.

Sloth said to Diligence: "You work too hard. For two days now you have been busy plowing that field. I bear ingenuity has invented a plow driven by steam. Why not get one to plow for you while you sit with me in the shade and enjoy life?"

Diligence bought the plow which would plow a field in a fraction of the time it had taken him to do it. But instead of sitting in the shade he put more land into cultivation, and it took all his time to attend to the plow and see that it worked properly.

When harvest time came he had more to do than ever on account of the new land he had cultivated.

Harvest over, Sloth went to pay Diligence a visit, saying to himself, "Now he will have a little more time to talk to me." But he found him conferring with ingenuity in regard to a larger, more powerful plow, that he might next season put still more land in cultivation.

Moral.—There is no cure for diligence.—Boston Journal.

JOHN F. KOONTZ, attorney for the interstate commerce commission, was a passenger on this morning's northbound train.

BUTLER THEATER

The feature at the Butler tonight will be a Pathe Gold Rooster play "Via Wireless," written by Winchell Smith and Paul Armstrong, in five gripping reels, taken from the play of the same name, featuring Gail Kane and Bruce McRae, supported by Paul McAllister, and a splendid cast.

It is a story of a draughtsman in a gun factory being swindled out of a huge royalty by the general manager of the factory, but being outwitted by a lieutenant in the U. S. navy. Somers has also invented a gun which he gives to be cast to the Durant Iron works, and which, if successful, will do away with the graft of the general manager on the first invention. The general manager takes good care that Somers' gun is "killed" in making. He then misrepresents Somers to Maise and her father, and though Maise loves the lieutenant, she feels she must give him up. Accompanied by her mother and the manager, she goes in the Durant yacht for a cruise. The boat hits a mine, and in the rush to leave her, Maise is trapped in the wireless room. She sends out the S. O. S. signal, taught her by Lieutenant Somers. The lieutenant, aboard a U. S. cruiser, arrives at the side of the doomed ship just in time to make a sensational rescue. The picture is filled with thrills and excitement from start to finish.

The preliminary reel will be a Pathe Weekly, which will be run ahead of the feature.
